DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Acknowledgment is made of applicant's claim for foreign priority based on an application filed in Germany on November 11, 1999. It is noted, however, that applicant has not filed a certified copy of the Germany application as required by 35 U.S.C. 119(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. In claim 5 and 6, it is unclear how the first and second blade drums are "preloaded". Additionally, it is unclear what "preloaded" refers to.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 3, it is unclear what structural feature is being defined by the claimed limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sato et al. Sato et al. discloses the invention substantially as claimed including a first blade drum (6) carrying a first blade (45), second blade drum (12) carrying a second blade (46) synchronized such that the blades sever a rolled strip (col. 5, lines 45-49), means located in front and behind to advance the rolled strip (89), roller means to support the rolled strip (77), and synchronizing tooth gears (14a, 14b, 15a, 15b). Sato et al. does not disclose blade drums that differ in diameter. However, varying the diameters of the blade drums is well-known in the art as demonstrated by Leroy, Wolfberg et al, and Hillebrand. Additionally, varying the blade drum such that the first rotates a number or x-revolutions corresponding to a number of y-revolutions of another drum such that the drums are synchronized to interact at a particular reference point or at a particular time is fundamental mechanics that is within the skill level of any engineer.

8. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sato et al. Sato et al. discloses the invention substantially as claimed including an upper beam bridge (6) with shaft stubs (7a, 7b) carrying a first blade (45), second blade drum (12) carrying a second blade (46) synchronized such that the blades sever a rolled strip (col. 5, lines 45-49), means located in front and behind to advance the rolled strip (89), roller means to support the rolled strip (77), and synchronizing tooth gears (14a, 14b, 15a, 15b). Sato et al. does not disclose blade drums that differ in diameter. However, varying the diameters of the blade drums is well-known in the art as demonstrated by Leroy, Wolfberg et al, and Hillebrand. Additionally, varying the blade drum such that the first rotates a number or x-revolutions corresponding to a number of y-revolutions of another drum such that the drums are synchronized to interact at a particular reference point or at a particular time is fundamental mechanics that is within the skill level of any engineer.

9. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sato et al. Sato et al. discloses the invention substantially as claimed including a first blade drum (6) carrying a first cutting bit (45), second blade drum (12) with an anvil (46) synchronized such that the blades sever a rolled strip (col. 5, lines 45-49), means located in front and behind to advance the rolled strip (89), roller means to support the rolled strip (77), and synchronizing tooth gears (14a, 14b, 15a, 15b). Sato et al. does not disclose blade drums that differ in diameter. However, varying the diameters of the blade drums is well-known in the art as demonstrated by Leroy, Wolfberg et al, and Hillebrand. Additionally, varying the blade drum such that the first rotates a number or x-revolutions corresponding to a number of y-revolutions of another drum such that the drums are synchronized to interact at a particular reference point or at a particular time is fundamental mechanics that is within the skill level of any engineer.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Thomas, Sclipa, Ward, Sr., Klein, Hilsenbeck, Garret et al., Welch, Martiny, and Kuromaru et al. are cited to show related devices.
